Local Resident Wed In Garden To Mr. Flack

Miss Eisenmenger, M. A.
in Nursing, Is Bride of Divinity Student

Miss Hertha Eisenmenger daughter of Mrs. Ernst Weber, of 159 Lorraine Avenue, became the bride of James M. Flack, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flack of Crosby, Miss., Saturday at a ceremony performed in the garden of her mothers' home.

The Rev. Kermit Gregory, a schoolmate of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock. A reception followed. Given in marriage by Mr. Weber, the bride wore a long chiffon gown of aquamarine, a veil to match, and carried sweetheart roses. There were sweetheart roses in her hair also.

Mrs. Peter Neelsen, her sister, was her matron of honor, wearing a gown of pink silk jersey, and blue delphinium in her hair, matching her bouquet.

B. M. Ferriss served as best man. Organ music for the ceremony was played by Stanley Forbes.

After a wedding trip to Connecticut, the couple will make their home in New Haven.

The bride, a graduate of A. B. Davis High School, obtained her bachelor's degree in zoology at Swarthmore College in 1938 and has just been awarded her master's degree in nursing at the School of Nursing of New Haven for Hospital Administration.

Mr. Flack, who is on the faculty of Hopkins Grammar School in New Haven, is working for his doctor's degree in the Divinity School of New Haven University.

Among those attending the wedding were Dr. Harry Rogers, president of Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and chairman of the Priority Committee on Rubber and Cork, with Mrs. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. John Whitson, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Rimer of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Lars Bolsen of Pelham Manor.
